Get in the swing with our
SUMMER ANIMATION FESTIVAL
 Beginning in June

Meet Disney's Robin Hood

School's out—and now that there's more time for family TV viewing, we've put together a fabulous Summer Animation Festival.

For three months we'll be bringing you, in addition to the best in movies, specials, series, and variety programs, a dazzling extravaganza of full-length Disney animated classics!

Beginning with the exclusive world television premiere of "Robin Hood" this month, we'll feature "Alice in Wonderland" next month and "The Sword in the Stone" in August. Why not make it a real summer of Disney magic by welcoming your friends to a screening of these all-time favorites? We've even provided the invitations (see page 33).

"Robin Hood" is the Disney Studio's second movie about the outlaw chief of Nottingham, and by far the more entrancing of the two. Walt, who had been attracted to the legend of Robin Hood from boyhood, filmed it as a realistic, live-action adventure in 1952. Accuracy was his aim throughout, and "The Story of Robin Hood and His Merrie Men" was photographed in Sherwood Forest and other authentic English locales after having been meticulously researched.

Almost 20 years later, Disney artists came up with the idea of retelling the tale of Robin Hood in animation. Wolfgang Reitherman, a Disney veteran, took over the task of producing and directing. From the onset, Reitherman realized that not only was he following in Walt's footsteps, but those of several others going all the way back to the 12th century. Robin Hood was mentioned in ballads which were passed by word of mouth from generation to generation. His name first appeared in the writing of John of Fordun, a Scottish historian, and in an English poem about "Piers Plowman" written in the mid-1300s.

The doubt surrounding Robin Hood's existence far outweighs any evidence that he lived. One source says that he was born about 1160 at Locksley, Notts., and was the outlawed Earl of Huntingdon, Robert Fitzooth, in disguise. The first printed collection of ballads about him was "The Lytel Geste of Robin Hood" by Wynkyn de Worde in 1490.

And so it went through the centuries. Poet Michael Drayton wrote of Robin Hood in 1612. Sir Walter Scott introduced him in two novels, "Ivanhoe" (1819) and "The Talisman" (1825). He inspired an 1890 operetta by Reginald De Koven, and finally, in our century, numerous movies including the 1922 silent starring Douglas Fairbanks and the classic "Adventures of Robin Hood" starring Errol Flynn, in 1938. Richard Greene played the outlaw in a 1955-1958 TV series. Elsewhere along the way, Robin Hood was the hero of "The Prince of Thieves," "Men of Sherwood Forest," "Sword of Sherwood Forest," "Bandit of Sherwood Forest," "Rogues of Sherwood Forest," and "Wolfshead: the Legend of Robin Hood," among a handful of quickly made swashbucklers.

Intent upon breaking new ground, Reitherman and his team of writers, artists and composers conceived the idea of depicting the story of Robin Hood "through the eyes of the animals of Sherwood Forest, who knew him best." They created a cartoon cast headed by Robin Hood, a fox; Little John, a bear; Prince John, a lion; Friar Tuck, a badger; the Sheriff of Nottingham, a wolf; Maid Marian, a vixen; and Allan-a-Dale, a rooster. They also originated a number of comic characters to enrich the legend, notably Sir Hiss, a snake; Lady Kluck, a chicken; and a couple of vultures named Nutsy and Trigger.

Reitherman's next task was to give those animated actors voices. In alphabetical order, he signed on Brian Bedford to speak for Robin Hood, Pat Buttram for the Sheriff of Nottingham, Ken Curtis for Nutsy, Andy Devine for Friar Tuck, Monica Evans for Maid Marian, Phil Harris for Little John, George Lindsay for Trigger, Roger Miller for Allan-a-Dale, Carole Shelley for Lady Kluck, Terry-Thomas for Sir Hiss, and Peter Ustinov for Prince John. Then, as yet another innovation, he added five songs and a full musical score to the production.

Meanwhile animators and background artists—over 40 of them—were hard at work. During the four years it took to complete "Robin Hood," they produced 350,000 drawings (which, if laid side by side, would make a line 40 miles long) and 100,000 paintings of the characters in action. The film itself, 6,875 feet long with a running time of 83 minutes, is composed of 13 sequences and 1,200 scenes utilizing 800 painted backgrounds. The result, we are happy to add, is a merry, melodic, and entirely novel version of what really happened in Sherwood Forest.

Join us next month for "Alice in Wonderland," based on Lewis Carroll's fanciful book and abounding not only with the characters he made famous, but others created for the Disney version by Walt's artists. 🐾

IT'S A SNAP SNAP TO TAKE PERFECT PHOTOS!

Whether you're planning a dream vacation at Walt Disney World (see "Follow Us to Walt Disney World," page 15) or have filled up your summer schedule with trips, hikes, picnics and get-togethers—you'll want to capture all your golden moments on film! Don't be discouraged if last summer's prints of family and friends were less than perfect. This handful of helpful tips will show you how to avoid common problems that plague the novice—and let you end up with an album of treasured memories!

Focusing On Your Camera

The better your camera, the easier it is to take good photos. If you're thinking about getting new equipment, check out the "point-and-shoot" cameras which have revolutionized amateur photography. By offering such features as autofocus, autoflash, and automatic film advance, these lightweight, easy-to-use cameras help you make every shot count. If you're satisfied with your current camera, make sure it's in good working order before you load up.

Ready...Get Set...

Are you a weekend photographer who hasn't looked through a lens since last July? Review this quick checklist to make sure you're ready to shoot.

- Are there batteries in your camera? Are they still good? If you haven't used them for four or five months, you should probably buy new ones.
- Is your camera loaded? Is the film advancing correctly? If your camera has a window that lets you monitor the film's movement, check it after every shot.

- If you use a strobe for flash pictures, make sure the batteries are still good. Have you set the shutter speed so it will synchronize with your flash? (Check your owner's manual for the correct setting.)

- And finally, did you remember to remove the lens cap?

How To Rescue The Incredible Shrinking Family

Have you ever taken a shot of your family against a magnificent landscape—then been amazed to see only unrecognizable tiny matchstick figures in your print?

Because you see with your brain—not with your eyes—it's easy to make this mistake. When you look at a scene, you're most interested in the human subjects—so they appear larger. But the camera doesn't have your natural bias, and reproduces exactly what's out there.

Prevent your family from shrinking away by filling up your viewfinder with people—not landscape. When you take a group shot, try a close-up of three or four heads—or go for a three-quarters shot from the waist up—rather than taking a full-length portrait. By getting close, you'll be able to see your loved ones' happy smiles. Those shots of your precious people are the ones you'll look at again and again—long after your picture postcards have been discarded.

How To Abolish The Blurs

Why do your photos sometimes look as if they were shot behind a rain-drenched pane of glass? Your prints can look blurred or fuzzy even after you've focused carefully—and even when your camera has autofocus.

The solution to this problem is simple: just don't jerk the camera when snapping the picture! To abolish the blurs forever, try resting the camera against your face. When you have centered your subject inside the frame, slowly squ-e-e-ze the shutter. If your camera is small enough, apply equal pressure on both sides of the box.

How To Get A Piece Of The Action

Taking first-rate action pictures is difficult even for professional photographers. But when you're successful, you'll be thrilled by the excitement and energy you've captured on film—and you may never want to shoot the same old family lineup again! Here are a few pointers for catching bodies in motion.

First, try to put your subject against a simple background. If there are trees, playground equipment, telephone lines, or any other obstructions in your viewfinder, the photo will look "busy," and the action will lose its drama and effectiveness. For summertime photos, the sky—and an uncluttered horizon—make the perfect backdrop.

Then, rehearse your action scene. If your rollerskating champ plans to whiz down a hill, have a practice run first. Focus on a single spot as your wheeled wonder passes by. On the second run, hold your focus on that spot, wait until your subject moves into the frame—then snap away!

There's only one more step to taking memorable photos—and that's practice! As with any other art, the more photos you take, the better results you'll get. So don't delay—get out your camera...and happy shooting! ♥

FATHERS AND KIDS: A TERRIFIC TEAM

By Isobel Silden

Because Lisa's doctor wanted her to have at least an hour of physical exercise every day, her father took up jogging with her. The two recently received medals for finishing a 5K race.

When Jeff started having trouble with geometry, his engineer-father shared his mathematical expertise and tutored him. Jeff got a B on his last report card.

In the olden days, roles were defined: Daddy went to work, came home tired, and watched TV or read the paper. Mother kept house and took care of the children. Now it's all mixed up. In more households than not—60 percent to be precise—both parents work, and parenting is more of a fifty-fifty situation. This means that fathers are taking more responsibility for their children than ever before—and the youngsters are getting the benefit of some high-quality fathering!

"Fathering is absolutely critical, particularly in today's society," says Dr. Beatrice Cooper, PhD., a former staff member of the Reiss-Davis Child Guidance Center who has had over 20 years experience counseling parents. "When fathers become aware of how important they are in their child's eyes, it's easier for them to spend time with their children."

Dr. Cooper points out that even when both parents work, the mother usually interacts with the child more often. So when the father speaks, his words carry more weight. "The child is used to hearing his mother giving instructions and orders," she explains. "Eventually, her voice is tuned out. It's on another channel in the child's head. But the father is so yearned for, so sought after, that his voice stays within the child."

According to Dr. Cooper, "A good father is one who says what he thinks, feels, and means. He really has to let his child know who he is, how he thinks, what he stands for. Sometimes children don't know what their father does for a living, and they have no idea what their father believes in. Fathers should be more outspoken, and not leave the parenting primarily to the mother."

Sharing quality time and playing together helps form a bond between father and child

To let their children know "who they are," some fathers take their children to work with them for a morning or an afternoon when the children are out of school. Others take the child in to see "where Daddy works" on a Saturday. They talk to their youngsters about some of the responsibilities that go with their job, explaining what they do and why. This helps the children feel they're part of their father's working life.

Dr. Cooper knows that many of the fathers she counsels play the role of tutor, helping their youngsters with homework. "Time spent together on homework may be the only quality time the child spends with the father. And when the child is tutored by the father, or he follows up on the homework, it gets done."

According to Joan Kurtzman, MSW, fathers should also show the nurturing part of themselves—their capabilities of love and warmth—to their children. She recently noted a young father who was feeding his six-month-old baby and a three-year-old child a cup of yogurt. “Caring was evident in every move he made,” she says. “I started talking with him and commented on it. ‘I love them,’ he told me, as though it were a matter of course.” Kurtzman and others in the “people helping” profession would relish seeing more loving between fathers and children.

How can you begin to “father” your young ones more effectively? Here are a few tips:

Invite your child on an outing to the snow, to the beach, or wherever you want to go. And invite one or two of your children’s friends as well!

Suggest outings doing things which interest you. If your child loves the zoo and you’re bored by it, don’t go. You won’t have a good time and your child will sense it.

Get involved in a project together, like building a model airplane. There are kits for those who need guidance.

Check out what’s of interest at the museum or other local places to visit. Do some homework ahead of time so you’ll have something to talk about with your child.

Caring fathers have discovered that by demonstrating their capabilities of love and warmth they are able to fulfill the deepest needs of their children for the close relationship that every youngster treasures in the early years of growing up

Find out what your youngsters are interested in—sports, music, television, or whatever—and talk to them on their level. Try to remember what intrigued you when you were that age and share those memories. Kids love knowing what their parents were like as children.

Go shopping for clothes or groceries together. It’s one more way of bonding with your child, of having things in common.

Plan outings that you will enjoy. Dr. Cooper stresses, “If the father gets gratification and satisfaction after a successful afternoon with his child, he’s laid the foundation for further contact.”

Make up stories for your children. One super-imaginative father created a make-believe planet and peopled it with fanciful—not scary—creatures. As his children grew up, they continued to embellish this story. Now, as parents themselves, they play the game with their own children. This is called building your own traditions—and it’s never too late to start! ♡

Ken Osmond is an amiable, devoted parent

Life With Freddie Haskell's Father

That old saw about "like father, like son" applies in spades to Ken and Eric Osmond. Ken plays the obnoxious Eddie Haskell in our comedy series, "Still the Beaver," and 13-year-old Eric plays his equally creepy son Freddie. Out of character, they are a couple of very nice guys who share a great relationship with each other. With Fathers' Day on the calendar this month, we asked Ken Osmond to compare his TV life as Freddie Haskell's dad to his everyday life with Eric.

"Well, up till now I really haven't had a family on TV," Ken said. "There's just Freddie and me. We occasionally talk about another son but he has never made an appearance on the show, and once in a while I argue with my wife, who is always out of sight in another room. Next month, though, you'll finally see her in an episode called 'Give and Take.' She throws me out of the house."

"When you're an adult, acting is a rough way to go financially. It's hard to feed a family and make regular mortgage payments on a very irregular income."

"Sandy, my real wife, has never thrown me out. We've been married 16 years, have two boys, Eric and Christian, and live in a ranch-style house in the foothills near the Disney Studio. Sandy breeds Arabian horses as an avocation. Christian, who's 10, likes horses too. Eric is kind of like me, we're horse-tolerant."

"I had a typical movie mother who pushed me into acting when I was four or five years of age," Ken went on to say. "Like Eric, I was 13 when I first played Eddie Haskell in the original 'Leave It to Beaver' series back in 1957. The show went into syndication in 1963, and I gradually dropped out of full-time acting. I'm with the police department now, but occasionally I take an acting role, or make a special appearance if it relates to Eddie."

"I get along with my kids, and when 'Still the Beaver' came about the people in production asked if I wanted Eric to try out for the part of Freddie Haskell. I said, 'Sure, why not,' but I left the decision to Eric. He was interviewed along with many others, and got the part entirely on merit.

"Both my sons are straight A students in school, although Christian has to work for the same grades that come easily to Eric. Eric will begin high school this fall, and he's chosen science as his major. I don't know if he'll continue with acting as a career. When you're an adult, acting is a rough way to go financially. It's hard to feed a family and make regular mortgage payments on a very irregular income."

"But right now Eric is enjoying his work in the series. I have close to a hundred of the original Beaver shows on tape, and after Eric got the part of Freddie he spent many, many, many hours in our living room watching them. He was trying to develop the cackle, that ridiculous laugh of Eddie Haskell's which took me a couple of years to perfect. Eric sat and practiced cackling for hours, and I must say, 'That's my boy!'—He's got it down pretty good!

"The only other effect of the role on Eric's home life that I have noticed is the number of neighborhood girls who seem to have taken a little extra interest in our household. They hang around quite a bit. But Eric and Christian are typical outdoor kids. The main thing that occupies their attention these days is their dirt bikes. They really rack up the miles

ROBIN HOOD

Animated classic featuring the voice talents of Peter Ustinov, Roger Miller, Phil Harris, Brian Bedford, Andy Devine

We're delighted to announce the official opening of our Summer Animation Festival beginning with

"Robin Hood" and continuing with "Alice in Wonderland" and "The Sword in the Stone" in July and August. What better way to add even more sunshine to your summer than by joining us for a three-month animated frolic!

It starts with a romp through the greenwoods of jolly old England with Robin Hood and his merry band as they dispense gold and justice to the poor folk of Nottingham.

But wait—Robin's looking a bit different these days! He's always been sly as a fox—now he is one! And he's not the only one who's changed! The entire cast of characters—good and bad—are animals! Five original songs add zest to a film that's as tuneful, bright and humorous as you expect a Disney animated classic to be! (82 min.)

THE CHANNEL'S CHOICE

We are pleased to recommend the following films for your special consideration this month.

PRIME TIME PROGRAMS WITH ADULT APPEAL

"The Golden Seal"

This critically acclaimed adventure story of a family's life-changing encounter with a rare, mythical golden seal is also a morality tale. "It's about love and commitment, and the necessity of giving up small dreams for larger ones," says producer Samuel Goldwyn, Jr.

"The Moon-Spinners"

Hayley Mills is engulfed in mystery and danger in this adaptation of Mary Stewart's best-selling novel. Hayley is a favorite among you Disney Channel subscribers, and we're pleased to bring you this replay of her most exciting movie.

PROGRAMS FOR CHILDREN

"The Red Balloon"

Winner of an Academy Award and 13 international awards, this film fantasy depicts "the lovely image of a child's dream." It is a major achievement from French director Albert Lamorisse, whose "Stowaway in the Sky" appears as a companion piece to "The Red Balloon" on The Disney Channel this month.

"Sea Urchins"

Here's a cloak-and-dagger thriller for juniors guaranteed to keep them on the edge of their chairs. It stars three Maori brothers who inherit a boat which sails them into an unusual, fast-moving, suspenseful adventure.

THE GOLDEN SEAL

Movie starring Steve Railsback, Penelope Milford, Michael Beck and introducing Torquil Campbell

Nothing captures the heart like inspiring stories of animals and the people who love them. That's why we're bringing you this superbly made film about a boy's magical encounter with a beautiful, rare seal. We're sure this feature, shot against the breathtaking landscapes of the Aleutian islands, will take its place next to "Old Yeller," another great animal film, as a warmly remembered classic.

Nine-year-old Eric Lee (Torquil Campbell) is lonely. He is the only little American boy on the tiny island where his father Jim Lee (Steve Railsback) has settled to search for the mythical golden seal he glimpsed once seven years ago.

After a willawaw, a fierce arctic storm, separates Eric from his parents, he finds the golden seal and witnesses the birth of a pup. In scenes of lyric beauty, the boy and seal pup romp on the rocky shoreline, then frolic in the bay itself.

When trouble threatens his new friends, Eric is willing to risk his life to save them. But as the seals' enemies close in, even the boy's desperate efforts may not be enough. (94 min.)

June 3, 6, 9, 14, 18, 20, 23, 26, 29

Eric Lee (Torquil Campbell) races to the rescue as a heartless hunter takes aim at the glorious golden seal that has appeared on the tiny island where Eric lives

THE KID PLUS The Idle Class

Movies starring Charles Chaplin, Henry Bergman, Edna Purviance

Charlie Chaplin pours tea for the foundling he has taken in Comedy tinted with pathos is a hallmark of Chaplin's work, and nowhere is the combination more successful than in "The Kid." Now considered a screen masterpiece, it was his first effort as writer, director and star of a feature-length film.

Charlie's an itinerant glazier who finds and raises an abandoned child (Jackie Coogan), teaching him to boost business by smashing windows for Charlie to repair. When authorities separate the partners, more than just glass gets broken.

Then Charlie plays a dual role in "The Idle Class" when a wealthy beauty mistakes the Little Tramp for her husband. (85 min.)

June 5, 8, 14, 17, 23, 26

THE BOATNIKS

Movie starring Robert Morse, Stefanie Powers, Phil Silvers

It's time to mix up a batch of summer fun — and we've got all the ingredients you need right here!

Start with an accident-prone young Coast Guard ensign, a beautiful girl, a million dollars worth of stolen jewels and a mysterious Japanese pearl diver. Stir well with the wackiest bunch of sea dogs in Newport, the world's busiest little harbor. Add the wildest sea chase in nautical history, bake slowly in the California sun — and serve up Walt Disney Productions' comedy treat, "The Boatniks"!

Robert Morse is the hapless hero who is rescued more than he rescues; Stefanie Powers is his romantic interest; and Phil Silvers is the pea-brained mastermind of three jewel thieves. Together they set off a chain of hilarity that turns the harbor into utter chaos! (99 min.)

June 4, 7, 10, 16, 19, 22, 25, 28

Seagoing landlubbers create a nautical traffic jam in Newport harbor

Special

Ladies and gentlemen and children of all ages! It's circus time at The Disney Channel—and you're invited behind the scenes of a three-ring extravaganza! Our camera crew joined the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus at their Florida winter quarters to bring you this insider's view of life beneath the big top before the nationwide tour begins!

You'll see 400 people working around the clock to put finishing touches on the multi-million dollar, soon-to-travel production. Veteran clown Lou Jacobs coaches new graduates of the College of Clowns for their professional debut. Trainer Gunther Gebel-Williams rehearses with his jungle animals, and the Flying Españas perfect their trapeze act high above the net.

Travel time draws near and, amazingly, everything is ready! "Circus" closes with a dress rehearsal of the Spectacle, the magnificent parade around the arena which features every member—human and animal—of The Greatest Show on Earth.

Smallest details are checked before costumes are approved

the RED BALLOON & Stowaway in the Sky

Movies starring Pascal Lamorisse

You'll be swept away by two airy flights of fancy from French director Albert Lamorisse. In the Academy Award-winning film, "The Red Balloon," a lonely French boy befriends a wondrous balloon which follows him everywhere. "Stowaway in the Sky," narrated by Jack Lemmon, follows an eccentric inventor and his stowaway grandson who float off in a homemade hot-air balloon. (33 min. & 81 min.)

A magical red balloon makes friends with a little boy

SEA URCHINS

Movie starring

Jason Pirihi, Huru Rakete, Freddie Hemara

The high seas, exotic islands, overgrown ancient graveyards and crumbling ruins are the backdrop for this New Zealand-made mystery thriller.

Three young native boys, determined to retrieve a stolen tribal carving belonging to their grandfather, sail straight into the ruthless arms of an art thief who's just as determined to keep the valuable artifact—at any cost. (75 min.)

A young adventurer meets trouble on a deserted island

The BULLWHIP GRIFFIN

Movie starring Roddy McDowall, Suzanne Pleshette, Karl Malden, Harry Guardino

"Bullwhip" Griffin (right) battles the mighty Mountain Ox

All's fair in love and prospecting when Arabella, a Boston debutante (Suzanne Pleshette), her young brother Jack (Bryan Russell) and Griffin, the family butler (Roddy McDowall) sail for San Francisco to seek their fortunes and find a peck of problems instead.

Soon after joining forces with the owner of a map to the mother lode, they're pursued by crooked Judge Higgins (Karl Malden), a con man who wants the document. When Lady Luck frowns on them once too often, Griffin takes drastic steps to save the day.

This spoof of gold-rush days uses every trick in the book to strike it rich in laughs. Special effects and animated sequences in the style of early flicks add bounce to the action. Karl Malden turns in a protean performance as the rascally conniver who disguises himself as five different characters. (110 min.)

June 8, 11, 14, 17, 20, 23, 26, 28

The Moon-Spinners

Movie starring Hayley Mills, Eli Wallach, Peter McEnery, Joan Greenwood, Irene Pappas

When this film tied for first place as the May "Play It Again Cinema" winner, we promised to run it for you in June. Now all you "Moon-Spinner" fans can rejoice — here's your romantic heart-pounding thriller about an English girl pursued by a jewel thief.

Hayley Mills plays the 18-year-old girl who finds adventure — and a young man to share it with her — while vacationing in Greece. The co-stars are supported by Pola Negri, siren of the silent screen, as a shady millionairess with a passion for gems. (118 min.)

Carroll O'Connor steals a horse from Michael Shea & friend

RIDE A NORTHBOUND HORSE

Movie starring Carroll O'Connor, Michael Shea, Ben Johnson, Dub Taylor, Andy Devine

How would you like to grow up in the 'Old West with a horse as your best friend? This fast-paced Disney film captures all the joys and hardships of this exciting time in a boy's life.

Fifteen-year-old Cav Rand (Michael Shea) needs a horse to work for cattleman Will Parker (Ben Johnson). He buys a beautiful—and fast—black gelding named Coal.

But after the boy hits the road to join the cattle drive, an unscrupulous peddler, Shawnee (Carroll O'Connor), steals the mount. He plans to cheat in races by secretly substituting Coal for a slower horse. The scheme works perfectly until Shawnee agrees to race Coal at Will Parker's outfit—where Cav is now working! (92 min.)

Ball of Fire

Movie starring Gary Cooper, Barbara Stanwyck

A sober-sided semanticist (Gary Cooper) decides to study slang for his new encyclopedia—but gets more than he bargained for when a curvaceous night club cutie (Barbara Stanwyck) agrees to be his instructor! The alluring entertainer crashes his bachelor pad—which also houses seven prissy professors—and teaches him the language of love.

This comically off-beat version of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, written by Charles Brackett and Billy Wilder of "Sunset Boulevard" fame, enchanted the critics. "Ball of Fire" is a gay, light-hearted, frolicsome, enormously entertaining comedy"—New York World-Telegram. (108 min.)

Vacationing David Lauren meets French flyer Lilliane Clune

My Seventeenth Summer

Special starring

David Lauren, Lilliane Clune, Rodger D. Landry

This charming feature, part idyll, part high adventure, lets you share the experiences of a young boy during the golden summer of 1923.

Seventeen-year-old Walter (David Lauren) is sure his summer vacation at his grandparents' farm will be a bore. Then he meets a fascinating young French girl, Jenny Giraldo (Lilliane Clune), and her immigrant family, owners of a nearby farm.

Soon Walter is spending all his time with Jenny—except when she's up in the sky taking flying lessons from her stunt aerialist uncle. But the other farmers in the valley distrust and shun these "foreigners." In the last weeks of Walter's vacation, the ringleader of the "anti-Frenchy" movement concocts a daring plot to shoot Jenny's airplane down!

SanTiaGo's ARK

Special starring
Ruben Figueroa

You'll be inspired—and moved—by this tale of a small miracle of faith in the slums of New York. The "wonder-worker" is Santiago (Ruben Figueroa), a New York street kid, who finds a book on boats, and decides to build a square-rigger on the roof of his decaying tenement building.

Using spare wood and junk from nearby fields, Santiago and his friend Stevie (Marcus Ticoten) set to work. At first, their neighbors scoff, but soon even hardened gang leader Mr. Sands (Bill Duke) secretly encourages him.

The boat is nearly finished when a gang of young vandals wrecks it and tosses the pieces to the streets below. Devastated, the boys are ready to give up—until their neighbors, whose lives have been changed by Santiago's "ark," take matters into their own hands.

FIVE MILE CREEK

Series starring

Louise Caire Clark, Rod Mullinar, Liz Burch, Michael Caton, Peter Carroll, Martin Lewis, Gus Mercurio, Nicole Kidman, Shannon Presby, with Jay Kerr as Con Madigan

Who's the best coach driver on either side of the Pacific? To find out, mischievous Annie (Nicole Kidman) sparks an epic confrontation between Jack (Rod Mullinar) and Con (Jay Kerr) in "The Great Coach Race," beginning June 5.

After discovering the real identity of a masked stagecoach robber in "A Death in the Family," starting June 19, Con prepares to face a duel to the death — while Kate (Liz Burch) fears she's losing her fiancé to the robber's beautiful sister!

Meet the men who create Disney's unique entertainment worlds—and get a sneak preview of their latest innovations—in "The WED Imagineers" this month. You'll admire the originality, enthusiasm, and solid scientific know-how of all the Imagineers, from original Disneyland designers like Bill Justice, who recalls his work with Walt, to current Imagineers like Dave Feiten, who puts the new Mr. Lincoln through his paces. Then let show producer Tim

Imagineer Dave Feiten

Delaney give you a behind-the-scenes tour of The Living Seas at Walt Disney World—including the world's largest enclosed aquarium!—scheduled to open next year.

WILDERNESS BOUND

...from Survival Anglia

Series

Imagine millions of plump little cherubs in tuxedos covering the beaches, rocks, and cliffs of an island sanctuary. That's the way the remote Falkland Islands of the South Atlantic look during "Penguin Summer," when 17 species of the appealing bird visit their breeding grounds. Survival Anglia photographers Cindy Buxton and Annie Price follow the penguins as they hop and waddle from the sea to the 500-foot high cliffs where they make their nests. With Jason Robards as narrator, you'll see the torpedo-shaped birds hatch and raise their young, evade predators and romp through the crashing surf.

Beaver and Oliver celebrate Father's Day

Still The Beaver

Series starring Barbara Billingsley, Tony Dow, Ken Osmond and Jerry Mathers as the Beaver, with Kip Marcus, John Snee, Kaleena Kiff, Janice Kent, Eric Osmond

On "Father's Day," starting June 5, Oliver (John Snee) sets off to buy Dad (Jerry Mathers) a special present, but spends his money on ice cream and toys instead. Now the boy must make amends to the father he truly loves.

In "String of Pearls," premiering June 19, Kelly's (Kaleena Kiff) compulsion to try on her grandmother's (Barbara Billingsley) precious pearl necklace sets off a chain reaction of comical—and catastrophic—events!

"Father's Day" June 5, 7, 8, 12, 14, 15, 16, 18

"String of Pearls" June 19, 21, 22, 24, 28, 30

Children's Island

Series starring George Montgomery, J.D. Roth

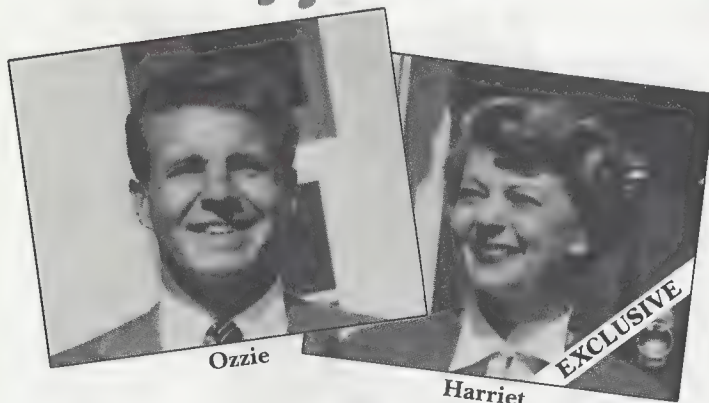

If you've ever identified with Robinson Crusoe, you'll be captivated by this eight-part series about a group of children stranded on a desert island. A new episode premieres the first and third Saturday morning of the month.

In "Dormire Necesse Est" (June 1), two British boys ask the United States President (George Montgomery) for asylum during World War II. William (J.D. Roth), the President's grandson, champions the cause, and passage to safety is arranged for hundreds of children. Then in "It's Land" (June 15), a German torpedo sinks one of the ships. All but eleven youngsters are rescued. Set adrift in a lifeboat and believed dead, their only hope lies in William's insistence that they are still alive.

THE ADVENTURES OF Ozzie and Harriet

Ozzie

Series starring Ozzie Nelson, Harriet Nelson, David Nelson, Eric "Ricky" Nelson

Discover—or rediscover—why "Ozzie and Harriet" is one of America's all-time favorite comedy series! The frolics and follies of the real-life Nelson family will keep you laughing with a different show every weekday evening (two repeat on weekend mornings).

In shows this month, Oz and his best friend Thorny (Don DeFore) test out a new lightweight ladder—and get marooned on the Nelsons' roof! In "Father and Son Tournament," Ozzie must choose between David and Ricky for his table tennis partner. Oz learns about a different kind of "Courage" when he has to return Harriet's negligee to a dress shop. In "The Camera Show," the Nelson family gets snap-happy after Oz brings home some cameras. And on "David's Birthday" the 17-year-old has an unexpected visitor.

the edison twins

Series starring Andrew Sabiston, Marnie McPhail, Sunny Besen-Thrasher

Fakes and frauds are the quarry of teen twins Tom and Annie Edison (Andrew Sabiston, Marnie McPhail), who use their scientific know-how to uncover the truth in two new episodes this month.

In "Every One a Rembrandt," starting June 1, Tom has to convince the owner of a 19th century oil painting that his "masterpiece" is a sham—and then track down the original!

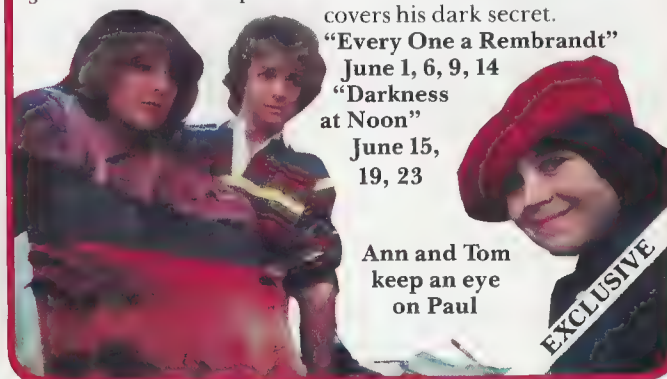

A handsome young astronomer arrives in town to study an upcoming solar eclipse in "Darkness at Noon," starting June 15. Tom is suspicious of the scientist—and soon discovers his dark secret.

HUCKLEBERRY FINN & HIS FRIENDS

Series starring Ian Tracey, Sammy Snyders, Brigitte Horney, Bernie Coulson, Holly Findlay

Whether you've been following this excellent series since it began, or are a new viewer, you'll relish the two exciting sequences which premiere on the second and fourth weekends of this month. The show authentically recreates the events of Mark Twain's novels, so it's easy to follow the action.

In "Such a Lovely Funeral," beginning

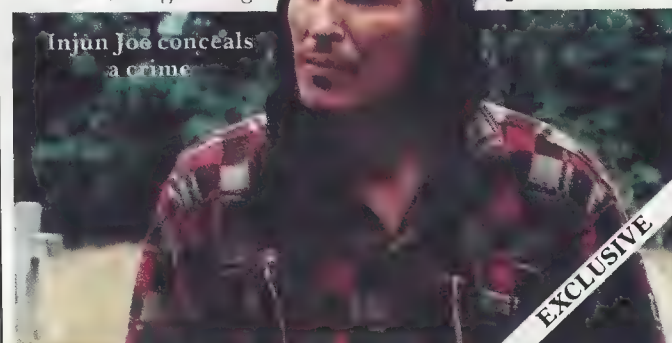

June 8, the wayward boys sneak into church for their own funeral service. Then Huck and Tom must decide whether to stay mum or tell the truth at "Muff Potter's Trial," starting June 22.

We're All Ears

Linda Palmer
Subscriber Services Director

Dear Friends,

I'm so excited that we're airing "Robin Hood" this month... I just love our animated classics! We're delighted we can provide them for you. But best of all, this is just the beginning! There are many more ahead.

I hope you'll have a chance to watch some of the programs about fathers and fathering on The Disney Channel this month. I know I'll get a special kick out of watching the cartoons done in the 1950s and seeing how the role of fathers has changed. Today the men are so capable of doing tasks formerly reserved for the ladies!

We hope you'll encourage your young ones to participate in the Summer Animation Festival Sweepstakes. We have lots of cute little furry critters to give away, and we want to see them get a good home—like yours!

Sincerely,

Linda

"SPLASH" PROS AND CONS

We wanted to let you know that we really enjoyed "Splash" this month, but at the same time we are a little afraid to see our favorite TV channel heading in the same direction as the rest of TV. We subscribe to The Disney Channel because it is different than the others. It's great to be able to watch family shows that we can share together.

Jim and Renee Stiglich
Troutville, VA

I thoroughly enjoy The Disney Channel...its film library is well worth the monthly subscriber fee. However, I do object to the editing of recent films. It must be noted that in the case of "Splash," the number 11 top-grossing U.S. film for 1984 and by far Disney's biggest theatrical hit in years, much of its box office appeal was due to its "adult situations and language." Removing such "situations" from major recent films can cause the viewer/subscriber to be left with products of rather questionable entertainment value. Thanks for allowing "Splash" to be seen in its complete version.

THE TRUTH ABOUT ANNETTE

My brother-in-law insists that at one time Annette Funicello was married to Frankie Avalon. My sister and I told him that she was only married once—but not to Mr. Avalon. Unfortunately, we can't convince him. Could you let him know we're telling the truth?

Mrs. Charles Hazzard
Southbridge, MA

You are indeed telling the truth. Although Annette appeared in several films with Frankie Avalon, she was never married to him. Annette, who is now divorced, was married to agent Jack Gilardi, and is the mother of three children.

WAPATULA NEWS BRIEFS

Stan Drier held a grand opening for his new laundromat, "Stan's Drip and Spin Shop" Saturday. The celebration included coupons for a free spot removal to the first 10 customers.

A burnt pie apparently caused last week's fire in the Wapatula High Home Ec classroom. No injuries were reported by Fire Chief Maynard Watershed. "Controlling the blaze was a piece of cake," he told reporters.

It's time for The Wapatula Ladies Auxiliary annual "Beautify Wapatula—Plant a Pansy" campaign. Seeds are on sale at the feed mill.

Verna Weldone was arrested for chaining herself to the gum machine outside Rodney's Market in protest against Rodney's high produce prices. "As Wapatula's leading consumer advocate, I want to get to the root of this problem," she said.
